CHAPTER V.

THE GOVERNOR OF A PRISON AND THE GIRL HARVEY IRONS LOVES.

COLONEL JURNIEFF, the governor of the prison at Tiflis, sat in his office, which was a portion of the apartments allotted to himself and family. An even letter lay beside him on a table. A perplexed look was on his face. He was a cold man, usually imperturbable, but something in the letter had disturbed him.

"May the devil take that American!" he said as he picked up the letter again. "We think he is in Paris or New York, and now he turns up with his confounded windmills in Astrabad. What is worse, he is going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod. By the gods, he is enough to turn the entire secret police upside down! Undoubtedly he intends to meet Alma at the fair, as he did last year. But, thanks to her father's wisdom, I have her safe here where she will hear no more of that fellow's fine words."

He touched a bell and an orderly came to him.

"Has a letter been written or sent from my family apartments today?"

"None, your excellency."

"Has any been received?"

"None, your excellency."

"You must be doubly watchful. I have trusted you thus far; I will trust you further. You understand the circumstances, do you not?"

"I think I understand, your excellency. There was a bad, wicked man—one of those Americans who care for nobody."

"There was indeed—not only was, but is. As you are aware, he and my niece, Mile. Alma, met each other in St. Petersburg, where the fellow was selling some miserable American invention to pump water with windmills. Perhaps the machines were good enough, for he sold a lot of them. But these two fools must fall in love when my brother, General Jurnieff, had already planned upon having a prince for a son-in-law. But the young people outwitted him and met at the big fair at Nijni Novgorod last year. After that we sent the American out of Russia, telling him if he ever returned we would look upon him as having forfeited the right to his country's protection and send him to Siberia or have him shot."

"That kept him out, excellency."

"Not a bit of it! I have just received a letter from my brother, who has heard from one of our secret agents at Paris, that the American is now at Astrabad, in Persia, selling his wares, and has said he was going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod, which soon begins."

"He is a courage—he is a fool, excellency."

"You might have finished your sentence. He is a courageous fool. But, thank heaven, I have the young lady safe here in Tiflis. If he expects to meet her at Novgorod, he will be disappointed. I must send word at once to Nijni Novgorod and Astrabad. It may be possible to intercept him on the way."

The orderly bowed and was dismissed. A few minutes later a higher officer entered. It was Captain Orskoff.

"I salute you, colonel."

"I am glad to see you, captain. You appear to be happy. Has anything new been discovered concerning the missing Biartekis and his daughter?"

"I am glad to say we have recovered Koura. We have captured the two who were taking her away. They will be brought here and locked up to await trial."

"Then Biartekis was not really trying to sell his daughter?"

"We cannot make head or tail of it. Koura knows little, but believes in her father's innocence. Surely he did not need the money. Moreover, he cannot be found."

"Is that rascally Turk, Hafiz Effendi, in the city?"

"Yes. I have placed him under arrest."

"If it was a slave selling affair, Hafiz had a finger in it. He is a shrewd rascal. But who was it you captured, and where?"

"Lieutenant Thokt, with the gunboat stationed near the Kur, ran down a

"They will kill her, between them!"

Turkish craft and boarded it. The captain's name is Hassan. He was undoubtedly trying to get the poor girl on board a strange craft—a black hull. I think she belongs to the ameer of Bokhara."

"So you found the girl on board the Turk?"

"Yes, and also an American, who, I am sure, had a hand in the affair. What his motive was, whether he was trying to get Koura off to marry her or was acting as an agent for the ameer, I don't know. But he was arrested and brought here. You will see him soon."

"What name did he give?"

"He gave the name, I believe, Irons. Said he was going to Nijni Novgorod to sell pumps and windmills."

Colonel Jurnieff nearly fell off his chair. He stared at Orskoff till that officer thought the governor of the prison was daft.

"Do you know him? Did the lieutenant do wrong?"

"Do I know him! Now we have him in our hands we will finish him. Do I know him! We have watched him for a year, but he is like a rat. So he was stealing Biartekis and his daughter?"

"I don't say he was stealing Biartekis. We can find no trace of him."

"Call that orderly."

The orderly came in again and saluted.

"Alexander, that man of whom we spoke is under arrest. He was not content with following one of the most beautiful of Russian girls, but it was he who abducted the daughter of Biartekis."

"Has she been found?" asked the orderly, forgetting his manners in his intense interest.

"Yes, thank God! But her father is yet missing. We shall know more after we have heard them all. You understand your duties. I charge you to be shrewd and faithful. Go!"

The orderly, Alexander Borge, walked through the corridors of the prison with lagging steps. An officer passed him.

"My captain, I am not well," he said. "May I be relieved for an hour?"

The captain nodded and walked on into the office. Alexander hurried to another portion of the prison, where there were rooms luxuriously fitted up. He knocked cautiously at one, giving a certain signal. A young Russian girl opened the door.

"Alexander! You not on duty? What has happened?"

"I got relieved for an hour to tell you something for Mile. Alma."

"Quick! In here!"

She ushered him into a small storage closet and listened breathlessly.

"The colonel charged me again with my duties," he said. "He had received a letter from his brother that the young American whom we could not trace was in Astrabad, Persia. He was to go from there to Nijni Novgorod to meet Mile. Alma, as last year. Later I learned that he is under arrest for taking away Koura Biartekis."

"It is impossible. He has not been in Tiflis."

"I know, but that is the charge. He was on the boat that took her away. Would you tell Mile. Alma?"

"Yes, certainly. I must tell her everything. I believe this is a false charge got up to put the American in prison."

"Perhaps. But I must be off. I will watch. I will return if anything is new."

In another suit of apartments a lovely young girl, with pale face and longing eyes, sat listlessly looking from a window. The girl whom Borge had just left entered.

"Marie, what is the excitement in the streets?" asks Mile. Alma. "Something unusual, even for fair time, has happened. One girl, one of the few friends I have made—I have always met her when making purchases at her father's bazaar—is already missing. I hope the Turks have not found a way to outwit the law."

"Koura Biartekis is found, mademoiselle."

"Then that must be the cause of the excitement. Oh, when will this cruel exile come to an end? Marie, suppose Alexander should be sent away where you could never see him."

"I should cry, mademoiselle."

"Cry? Tears alone will not unite lovers. If they would, I could shed rivers. It must be grand to live where love is not a thing for prison walls."

"But you are not a prisoner, mademoiselle."

"Am I not? I have the privilege of driving out in my uncle's carriage. But am I not watched constantly? Is not my uncle forever giving orders that no letters shall be allowed to reach me? Could I send a letter even if I knew where he was?"

With a burst of sorrow Marie fell at the feet of her mistress.

"Oh, mademoiselle! I have such bad news for you! I would not tell, but I know you wish to hear all. He is here!"

"Here! You mean M. Irons—here in Tiflis?"

"Yes, mademoiselle, and will soon be in this very prison."

Alma's fingers clutched at her bosom, and she half rose from her chair, but, swaying, fell back.

"Will you have water, mademoiselle?"

"No! I want news. How—where did they take him? Is it true? Did Alexander tell you?"

"Yes. It seems he was on the same boat. They say he was taking away Koura Biartekis."

"I do not believe it! No; I know he loves me. It was not M. Irons."

"Perhaps not, mademoiselle. But we shall soon know."

"Yes, but my heart will break with apprehension. If they have taken him, after warning him to keep out of Russia, they will charge him with anything to punish him. You must help me, Marie. Good, brave, faithful girl! And Alexander too! What would I do without you both? O God, help him! Preserve him from their vengeance and cruelty!"

She broke down under the strain and slipped to the floor. Resting her arms on her chair and burying her face in them, she burst into spasmodic sobs.

"They will kill her, between them!" muttered the maid.

Will Have More Room.

Washington, Sept. 21.—The secretary of agriculture is preparing to call for bids covering all work connected with the new buildings recently authorized by congress. The buildings are to cost $1,500,000.

A GENERAL ATTACK

Port Arthur Is Again the Storm Center of Far Eastern War.

BY LAND AND BY SEA

Beleaguered Fortress Is Thought to Be Getting Hot Shot From All Sides.

While This Is Going on a Battle Is Said to Be Imminent at Mukden.

Port Arthur is again the center of interest as regards the war in the far East. A general attack by land and sea is regarded as likely to follow the Japanese assault upon the redoubt protecting the water supply of the fortress and town, and participation of the fleet under Admiral Togo is looked for. In this latter event it is expected that the remnant of the Russian squadron in the port will rally forth to engage the Japanese ships. Eight and possibly nine Japanese divisions are reported to be advancing on Mukden, and another battle between the armies under Generals Kuroki and Kuropatkin is imminent. St. Petersburg has heard that the Russian Baltic squadron has been reinforced by four warships purchased from Argentina.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

Port Arthur Again Occupies the Center of War's Grim Stage.

Mukden, Sept. 21.—A battle is imminent. The Japanese are advancing with eight and possibly nine divisions.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—Interest is again concentrated upon Port Arthur owing to the receipt from foreign sources of news that a general storming of the fortifications there has begun. A few belated telegrams from General Stoessel, the commander at Port Arthur, recording the repulse of the Japanese and continued attacks, strengthen confidence in the ability of the defenders to hold out despite the furious onslaughts being made on them. The last attack mentioned by General Stoessel took place the night of Sept. 14 and was directed against Redoubt No. 8, which protects the water supply of the city. The redoubt is about two miles beyond the line of permanent forts, and the attack upon this shows that the Japanese were not then within striking distance of the main fortress. Reports from Shanghai that some of the defenses had fallen into the hands of the Japanese as a result of a general assault on Sept. 20, are not confirmed from Russian sources.

The telegrams brought to Chefoo by Prince Radziwill have not yet reached the war office. It is understood that these dispatches contain details of the landing of strong Japanese reinforcements at Daini, which would tend to confirm the belief that it is the intention of the Japanese to storm the fortress, and when the warships will probably take part in the attack. In this event Rear Admiral Wrennus' division will doubtless go out and engage the Japanese fleet.

All Russia is anxiously awaiting news from the beleaguered garrison. Public feeling has been aroused to a high tension by the dreadful picture given by Prince Radziwill of the suffering of the Russian army there.

The sensational announcement that General Kuroki has crossed the Hun river unopposed and that the whole Japanese army is advancing upon Mukden is overshadowed by anxiety for Port Arthur. Moreover, the announcement relative to Kuroki does not receive complete credence here, as being in direct contradiction of official news issued by the general staff.

General Kuropatkin announced only two days ago that there was not a single Japanese east of Bentslaputze. How, it is asked, could General Kuroki with 100,000 men slip past General Rennenkampf's Cossacks and cross the Hun river near the Fushan coal mines, thirty miles east of Mukden. Fushan is situated on the road from Bentslaputze, where General Kuroki crossed the Taise river. This road is carefully watched by General Kuropatkin's outposts between Mukden and Sintsintin. A strong guard has been placed at the Fushan mines, which General Kuropatkin will not give up without a struggle, as the loss of the mines would involve the cutting off of the coal supply for the whole of the Manchurian railway. Nevertheless, it is considered more than doubtful if General Kuropatkin will make a decisive stand south of Tie pass.

Reinforcing Russian Navy.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 21.—It is reported here that four warships purchased from Argentina have arrived at Libau.

Eluded the Bloodhounds.

New Martinsville, W. Va., Sept. 21.—Pursued by angry citizens and bloodhounds, burglars escaped in the hills of Monroe county, Ohio, after robbing the safe in the postoffice in Woodsfield of $1,000. The robbers to get at the safe were compelled to break down three doors. The combination of the safe was worked and after taking the booty, they escaped.

MINTO'S POPULARITY

Gave the Doukhobors a Wrong Impression of His Being.

Rosthern, N. W. T., Sept. 21.—Doukhobors, the Russian religious fanatics who are settled in this district in large numbers, have created the greatest excitement among the Canadian settlers by once more leaving their agricultural pursuits and starting on a pilgrimage in search of the Messiah. On hearing of the great overland ride being made by Lord Minto from Batleford to Saskatoon, accompanied by a mounted guard of police and much military pomp, they decided that this man who was inspiring such respect from the Canadians, must be the Messiah for whom they had been waiting, and immediately started on one of their pilgrimages. Several of them were promptly arrested by the police here and housed in a vacant building.

Farmer Besieged by Negroes.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 21.—The house of J. E. Bennett, a prominent farmer, two and a half miles from Screven, in Wayne county, was fired into by negroes and one of his nephews received a bullet in the crown of his hat. Sheriff Overstreet, with two bloodhounds, spent the night in the vicinity of the Bennett home and made an effort to catch the marauders but failed. The home of Bennett is virtually in a state of siege. He has been warned that he is a "marked man," and his neighbors have been called upon to protect him.

A Flourishing Institution.

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 21.—State Examiner Sedberry has filed his report with the governor on the accounts and vouchers of Warren Logan, the treasurer of Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institution, of which Booker T. Washington is president. Everything was found correct and the examiner said the institution was in a flourishing condition. The endowment fund of the institution amounts to $1,030,553. The valuation of personal and real property is $686,379.

Evaded His Captors.

Fort Scott, Kan., Sept. 21.—Henry Miller, alias Kelly, who held up a gambling house in Springfield, Mo., and who was arrested in Kansas City, jumped from the window of a "Frisco" passenger car near here, escaping from a policeman who was taking him back to Springfield. Miller, still manacled, was captured on the track by four farmers. He broke away from them, threw himself in front of an approaching train and was instantly killed.

Probable Murder Revealed.

Auburn, Ind., Sept. 21.—Five years ago Jasper Matthews mysteriously disappeared and nothing was heard of him until this week, when his skeleton was found on the shore of Hamilton lake by a surveying party. A rusty revolver was found by his side, by means of which the skeleton was identified. Foul play was suspected at the time he disappeared and many now believe he was murdered.

Three Victims of Murder.

Sterling, Ill., Sept. 21.—The bodies of three men who had evidently been murdered were found in the Meridocia swamp, a dismal locality twenty-eight miles from Sterling. There was nothing on the bodies to identify the men, who apparently were laborers. The bodies evidently had been in the swamp for some time.

Mission Holds the Crowds.

Bolton, Eng., Sept. 21.—The attendance at the mission here of the American evangelists Reuben A. Torrey and C. M. Alexander, has been unprecedented. On Saturday and Sunday 27,000 persons attended the meeting. The mission will continue here another week.

MIXED SITUATION

New York Democrats Up In the Air Regarding Head of Ticket.

GROUT TO THE FORE

McCarren's Favorite Seems to Have the Best of the Situation as Convention Convenes.

Shepard Not Out of It by Any Means and There are Still Others.

Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 21.—With the Democratic state convention in progress today the situation with reference to the candidate for governor is still an absorbing one. Two candidates hold the attention of the great majority of the delegates—Edward M. Grout of Brooklyn, the candidate of EDWARD M. GROUT.

Senator Patrick H. McCarren and the Kings county people, and Edward M. Shepard, also of Brooklyn. The headquarters of former Senator David B. Hill, former Lieutenant Governor Wm. F. Sheehan, Senator McCarren, Tammany Hall, Assemblyman Palmer and of E. M. Shepard, the last named opened for the first time last evening, were thronged all last night and this forenoon. The center of the gubernatorial problem seems to be almost entirely in the attitude of Senator McCarren, who is pressing with undiminished urgency the candidacy of Comptroller Grout, and who has apparently succeeded in impressing upon a large number of delegates a belief in Mr. Grout's ultimate nomination. His followers say openly that his nomination is settled. Quite as marked as his support of Mr. Grout appears Mr. McCarren's opposition to Mr. Shepard.

It has been clear for many hours that strong influences are behind Mr. Shepard's candidacy, even though there has been no great showing of delegates in his behalf. It is hinted that Mr. Sheehan desires his nomination in the belief that it will be acceptable to Judge Parker, though he has not given the slightest intimation to that effect.

The Hopeful Mr. Taggart.

New York, Sept. 21.—Thomas Taggart, chairman of the national Democratic committee, arrived in New York last night from the West after a week's absence. He said: "I have had a most enjoyable time, and not only have worked, but have had the satisfaction of receiving the most positive assurance of victory throughout the middle West. The Democrats are working hard, harder in fact than they have worked in year, and nothing but victory can be seen. Indiana will go Democratic, and I am assured that Wisconsin will fall into line, and of course New York will go for Parker and Davis."

Two Enginemen Killed.

Cumberland, Wis., Sept. 21.—Fast freight No. 165 on the Ashland line of the Omaha road crashed into a special freight at Superior Junction, instantly killing Fireman Sundberg of St. Paul and fatally injuring Engineer John Williams of Altoona, both being on the Ashland train. The wreck was caused by the failure of Engineer Wiltman to stop at Superior Junction on account of a hard rain-storm, which prevented him from seeing the signals.

Tragedy at Fair Ground.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 21.—Luke J. French of Indianapolis was assaulted on the Knox county fair grounds by Albert F. Jones and was taken to a hospital in a dying condition from concussion of the brain. Jones became angry because French took his job at a confectionery stand.

Fairbanks Chief Speaker.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—Senator Charles W. Fairbanks was the chief speaker at a Republican mass meeting held in this city last night, the event being the formal opening of the Republican campaign in Maryland.

Enthusiastic Convention.

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 21.—In a state convention that was both enthusiastic and harmonious, the Republicans of New Jersey nominated former State Senator E. C. Stokes of Cumberland county for the governorship.

ELY BROTHERS 36 Warren St New York

CATARRH A COMMON COMPLAINT.

Catarrh begins with a stubborn cold in the head, inflammation or soreness of the membrane or lining of the nose, discharge of mucus matter, headaches, neuralgia and difficult breathing, and even in this early stage is almost intolerable. But when the filthy secretions begin to drop back into the throat and stomach, and the blood becomes polluted and the system contaminated by the catarrhal poison, then the sufferer begins to realize what a disgusting and sickening disease Catarrh is. It affects the kidneys and stomach as well as other parts of the body. It is a constitutional disease and as inhaling mixtures, salves, ointments, etc., are never more than palliative or helpful, even in the beginning of Catarrh, what can you expect from such treatment when it becomes chronic and the whole system affected? Only such a remedy as S. S. S. can reach this obstinate, deep-seated disease and purge the blood of the catarrhal poison. S. S. S. purifies and builds up the diseased blood, and the inflamed membranes are healed and the excessive secretion of mucus ceases when new, rich blood is coming to the diseased parts, and a permanent cure is the result.

S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and a reliable remedy for Catarrh in all stages. Write if in need of medical advice; this will cost you nothing.
